Your letter of 13 October to Mr. Dulles has been referred to us. We assume that the individual concerned is Zigsagaskio, about whom you wrote to me last June. The question of Z's welfare was taken up with the appropriate authorities at that time, and it was reported that he seemed well established and perfectly happy. It is therefore difficult to understand his present professions of distress, and the thought has occurred to me that by keeping in touch with you in this way he may be attempting to bring pressure on you for some reason unknown to us.

We are of course equally interested in his well-being and, if at hand and pertinent, please send me fuller details of the problem so that we may look into the matter again. It would be highly inadvisable, however, for you to take up the question directly with the local authorities in Z's area, as our concern has been with keeping him out of the limelight rather than putting him into it.
